GRAVEL ROADS NOW POPULAR

Much in Demand in Michigan, Where Many Are Built.

HOW THEY ARE CONSTRUCTED.

Deputy State Highway Commissioner Gives Many Valuable Points on the Proper Building of This Practical Highway, Saying, "If You Have Gravel Build a Gravel Road."

A well graded and well drained earth road is necessary for the foundation of any kind of an improved road; therefore money expended on such work is not lost even though it be several years before the road receives a hard surface, says Frank P. Rogers, deputy state highway commissioner of Michigan.

The cost of grading depends upon the kind and amount of earth that must be handled and the distance it has to be moved. Where old roads have been regarded for the purpose of building state reward roads in Michigan the cost has usually run from $200 to $400 a mile, $300 being a fair average. A few hilly roads have been graded at a cost of more than $2,000 a mile.

In clay soils trenches should be cut, making outlets into the side ditches or water that may collect in the gravel bed during construction and later before the surface becomes hard and waterproof.

Next to proper drainage the most important thing in building gravel roads is to secure a good quality of gravel. The average township commissioner and farmers generally have become so imbued with the idea that it is necessary to use a gravel that will pack quickly that they have almost lost sight of the fact that the only

A mild winter certainly does make a difference in the size of a fellow's coat bill.

There are only about 100,000 pounds of whalebone in the world, and all of it is owned by one man, who has control of the market in this product.

The present is a good time to start the campaign against flies by removing from the premises all filth and garbage piles, which are the breeding places of these disgusting and dangerous pests.

In the interest of public health a more active campaign should be waged against the custom of grocers of displaying foodstuffs without protection from dust and flies. An even greater menace to health are the fruit and candy stands to be found on the streets of all large towns and cities.

A faucet often leaks not because the metal parts are played out, but because the patent valve packing, which is often made of poor stuff, is done for. We fixed just such a leak the other day by cutting a piece of cowhide as a substitute. It was cheap, and the diaphragm hasn't leaked a drop since.

There are all too many girls who try to get a beautiful complexion by means of powders, washes and lotions when if they would take more exercise at the small end of a broom, sleep eight hours out of every twenty-four, breathe deeply and frequently pure, fresh air their color as well as complexion would take care of itself.

One of the most striking instances of the tremendous power exerted by growing roots is to be seen at El Portal, the entrance to Yosemite valley, where a great sandstone bowlder has been cleft from top to bottom by a live oak tree, which has reached a good size and seems to get along very well on its seemingly thin bill of fare.

Daisy Cornucopia Pauline, a Holstein cow owned by a New York breeder, lately established a world's record for a week when she produced 373 pounds of butter in the seven day period. This exceeds the former record by two pounds. The new record holder is four years old and gives promise of winning other laurels before she is through.

The observance of Arbor day by the children should be encouraged at school and at home as well. It will be most interesting to them to watch their trees grow, and they will come to have a regard and affection for them which will extend to trees in general. This is one of the best methods of spreading the gospel of forest conservation and will have its effect when the children have become men and women.

Some otherwise honest people seem to think it perfectly legitimate to beat the railroad or any other large business corporation out of all they can and consider doing so a good joke. There are others who will profit by what they know to be the mis take of a merchant in quoting a price on goods who wouldn't for one minute think of taking that amount of cash out of his pocket. Still another class of people, employed by others who would never be guilty of tapping the cash drawer, will loaf and steal time for which their employer is paying his good money. Queer codes of ethics these people have.

After several years of seemingly futile effort to pass the White mountain Appalachian forest reservation bill, the chief objection against which has been that it was unconstitutional for the federal government to buy and hold as a private owner for forest reserve purposes land belonging to the several states, the bill was enacted into a law by the congress just closed. While it will accomplish the desired results, the law is so framed that it authorizes the government to purchase lands at the headwaters of navigable streams in the White mountains and Appalachian mountains "to prevent the erosion of soil and to preserve the hardwood forests" in the latter territory. The bill carries with it an appropriation of $12,000,000, which may be devoted to the objects named. The enactment of the measure into law is a most commendable step in the direction of needed conservation.

If the prognostications of the bug men are correct there are considerable sections of the country which will in the course of two or three months be visited by the seventeen year locusts. While the locust is in the mind of many synonymous with the grasshopper, there is really very little resemblance between the two insects, the former being a transparent winged insect with broad head and stocky body of a greenish tinge closely resembling a large fly. On hatching the female locusts will be active during a period of five or six weeks. The chief damage done by them will be to young fruit trees, the young and tender twigs of which they will split in depositing their eggs. After these are deposited the mature insects will disappear into the ground for another seventeen years' sleep. It is predicted that the damage which will be done by the brood due in 1913 will be much more extensive than that of the present season's batch.

BROODY BIDDY AND HER REQUIREMENTS.

Selection is the magic word in poultry culture and refers not only to picking hen ton birds for breeders, but pertinently applies to the broody hen, her eggs and her nest.

Apply it to eggs and you will not get antiques, dirties nor freaks in shape nor size, but fresh, medium, normal eggs, thirteen to the hen before May and fifteen later.

Not just any hen will do. Brahmas, Cochins and Langshans are rather clumsy. Rocks, Dories,

FAITHFUL BIDDY.

Reds and Orpingtons are about the best. Hens crossed with Leghorns, Hamburgs, Minorcas, Spanish, Anconas, seldom sit steady. The chick should be good sized, clean shanked, vigorous, hot blooded, gentle and anxious to sit anywhere.

Otherwise she may die on the nest, leave her eggs or rear culs.

Not just any nest will do. Small, very deep or public nests mean mixed eggs and omelets.

Try the style shown. It is O. K. and twenty-one inches every way.

Fill with wheat straw. Let Biddy shape it for eggs, then turn against wall, cover the top, let hen out once a day for food and return her before eggs are cold and expect a big hatch if eggs are fertile.

Better test eggs the seventh day to be sure of fertility, and set two hens at same time to be sure of one full hatch at least, one to be set over in case of failure.

Where should nest be located? Not in the damp, where hens get intestinal colds; not on high, where they break eggs.

Cut out that damp cellar and sod from the bottom of the nest, for under natural incubation eggs get little outside moisture and that moist from the hen, so give Biddy a clean, quiet nest on a dry floor and have no empty nests around for her to get into by mistake. Lastly, treat Biddy well. Handle her gently, keep her free from lice, furnish a sunny dust bath for her to roll in, feed her lots of whole corn, flanked with sharp grit and pure water, and she will have an undisturbed digestion.

Under such conditions incubation is no strain, but a rest cure.

It assures a big hatch of dandy chicks and a mother in fine fettle to raise them to a splendid maturity.

DON'TS
Don't feed capons whole grain right after operation. Soft mash for hatch.

Don't buy chickens with bubbles on their nose. Catarrh.

Don't thaw frozen eggs and sell them to your best trade, and watch for the eggs that slip under the nest straw.

Don't put the roost up near the roof unless your roosters are proof proof. Their breath will freeze above their backs, and you will have rump germs by stacks.

Don't make roosts high, but low and level. Fit to the feet and edges level.

Don't heat your water vessel with a lamp. Heat the hens with sound feed and exercise. Thus get eggs and avoid a contamination.

A Little Good Paint in Time Saves $$$

When your buildings need painting, every day's delay costs you money. The sun, rain, snow and frost are getting in their work. Lumber costs too much to let it decay for want of a little paint.

It costs less to use good paint than to go without it. We use nothing but good paint on our work.

The kind of paint we use never cracks or scales—only years of wear will remove it. Let us figure with you when ready to paint. We guarantee a first-class and durable job—prices reasonable. Don't put it off.

50 Per Cent Better

"I have used less than one bottle of Cardui," writes Mrs. Gertrude Ward, of Rushville, Neb., "and am feeling fifty per cent better than when I began taking it."

"Before taking Cardui, I had suffered with female trouble, for eight years. My greatest trouble was irregularity. I also suffered with severe pains, every month, but now I am greatly improved and will recommend Cardui to all my suffering friends."

Take CARDUI

The Woman's Tonic

The rare medicinal herbs of Cardui are imported by the manufacturers direct from Europe and are not to be found in any other medicine.

These ingredients are what give Cardui its superiority, as a female medicine and tonic, over any other medicine.

For over 50 years Cardui has been the favorite woman's medicine. The ladies like it, because it is so easy to take, so gentle, so safe, so reliable in its results, and they have faith in its curative tonic powers, because of the thousands of other ladies it has helped. Try it today.

In the United States the elements friendly to honest labor are as strong as in any land in the world, to say the least. If they are as strong elsewhere there is small evidence of it. But when Haywood recommends general strike in behalf of alleged dynamiters in Los Angeles before they are arranged in court he vastly mistakes the sentiments of the American people, including the mass of intelligent and law abiding workmen.

Something like 500,000 visitors are expected at the coronation of King George V, and it is estimated that on average they will each expend $500; it is assumed, therefore, that London will be the richer after the event by $150,000,000, or thereabouts. Not a little of this money will consist of good American dollars. The shiploads of travelers en route across the Atlantic for the occasion and the still larger shiploads booked to go in the near future testify to the fact that there is a good deal of rampant toadyism in this land of freedom and democratic equality. As for the calculations of profits made in behalf of the London tradesmen, they have a familiar sound. Many American and some foreign cities that have been the scenes of big shows have found out that they counted chickens that failed to hatch.

Promoting The Good Roads Cause In The South.

In manifestation of the keen practical interest it has long had in every movement likely to conduce to the material advancement of the section which it serves, the Southern Railway started this week from Mobile, Ala., its special good-roads train for a five-months' trip through Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Virginia and Southern Illinois and Indiana. The train is equipped with working models run by electricity of improved road-building machinery and enlarged photographs of fine highways in different parts of the world, and at the many stops it will make lectures, illustrated by stereopticon views, will be given by experts in road building. Co-operating with the Southern Railway in this practical educational campaign are officials of the public roads office of the National Department of Agriculture and of the American Association for Highway Improvement.

As emphasized by Mr. M. V. Richards of the land and industrial department of the Southern Railway, this comprehensive undertaking recognizes the fact that good roads are the best feeders of the railroads and are important factors in the development of the South. Good roads mean good churches and good schools, together with good facilities for neighborhood intercourse, and consequently they are among the best sorts of immigration agencies. The home seeker, everything else being equal, is pretty sure to be influenced for or against a locality by the character of its roads. The farmers are coming to understand better and better that good roads increase the value of their lands, in reducing the cost of getting their products to market and aiding them in diversifying their agriculture. Good roads assure a reasonable amount of regularity in freight service, and thus give the railroads a basis for provisions for handling it promptly. Good roads are savers of time, trouble and money, and in promoting through its good-roads train the cause of improved highways in the South, the Southern Railway is benefiting itself and the whole section.

Resolutions of Respect.

Whereas, it has pleased our Divine Commander to call from the warfare of this world to the peace and joy of our eternal world, Comrade L. C. Chatham, therefore be it Resolved, by Joe Paxton Post, G. A. R., of Greenville Ky., that we give expression to our loss of a faithful comrade and officer, who in times of war was brave and faithful in discharge of his duties, thoughtful and considerate of his men, and fearless of the enemy. In the walks of peace he was a quiet, exemplary citizen, in the avenues of business he was an upright, honorable member, and in his home he was faithful, sustaining and commendable. Our post has lost a faithful member, and our rapidly lessening circle has again been reduced by his preferred call to higher duties.

His family has our most sincere sympathy, and in this, their deepest sorrow, we join.

He sleepeth, and on that glorious morn when all shall rise, we hope to join him in that bright sphere where true hearts and kindly souls shall enter upon an eternal existence of bliss.

It is our desire that these expressions be published in the newspapers of the county, and that a copy be supplied to the family.

Mr. Ed. Roark Dies at Central City.

Mr. Ed. Roark died at Central City at 4 o'clock Tuesday morning, from pneumonia, after an illness of five days. He was well known throughout the county, where he had lived for a great many years. He married a Miss Ragon here, and lived here several years, but moved to Central City, where he had held a position on the police force for some time. He was a painter and decorator by trade, and was engaged in that work since retiring from public service. His wife died many years ago, but he is survived by three children: Miss Bernice Roark, of Central City, Miss Hallie Roark and Mr. Roy Roark, who are living in New Mexico. Interment was in Fairmount cemetery, at Central City, at 3.30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon.

Ah, no. The honest fisherman does not arise and say
That it was just "as long as that" from eyebrow to the tail
And that he's sure that he had hooked a fifty-barrel whale.
He does not lie about the fish whose nibbles came to naught—
He tells his biggest whoppers on the fish he says he caught. W. D. N.

THE REASON.

"Most magazines are made up some six months in advance of the date of publication. Contributors having reasonable material to submit should bear this fact in mind."—Magazine Editor.

When Winter's reign is o'er the world,
And days are gray with gloom,
I sit me down beside my desk
In a close and heated room,
And write of birds and woodlands green,
And fields of clover bloom.

And when fair Summer rules the land,
And sun and showers mingle,
I write about the sweeping cold
That sets the blood a-tingle;
Of fields of snow and hard-packed roads,
And sleigh bells all a-jingle.

You ask me why in summer time
I write of winter's snow,
And why it is in winter time
I tell where flowers grow.
The stuff must reach the editor

Officer Shot By a Negro.

Mr. W. E. Miller, a member of the police force at Central City, was shot in the leg last Wednesday about 5 o'clock at Hillside, where he had gone on business. The shooting was done by Huston Weir, a colored man, who it is said was drinking. It appears that Weir had been arrested some time ago in Central City by Miller, and had been locked up. When he saw the officer at Hillside, where Weir lives, the negro became enraged and went to his home, returning with a shot gun, discharging it at Miller when he was within about 40 feet of him. Miller fell, but used his pistol, shooting four times without hitting his assailant, who was crouched behind some bales of wire. Weir walked away, and for a time was lost to the officers who were soon on his trail, but was arrested about 8:30 o'clock in a house near Depoy and brought here and lodged in jail. At his examining trial he was bound to the grand jury in the sum of $500, which he has not been able to give, and is in jail.

Quick Work On Bridge Replacements.

Mr. J. L. Boggess, road and bridge commissioner, had a busy week of it last week, replacing wooden bridges that had been washed out by the recent heavy rains. There were 35 bridges missing, and these were all replaced in just a week, which is a record never made before on such work. Mr. Boggess reports that there was not a concrete, steel or tile bridge or culvert injured in the least, and that the roads were not damaged at such points, either, the water being carried along without obstruction or washouts. This is a convincing showing made for permanent work, and shows how it is economical, costing slightly more at the start, but on account of lasting always, being the cheapest in the end. Mr. Boggess is to be congratulated on his quick service.

Decoration Day Exercises May 30.

Veterans and their friends, and the public in general will enjoy the Decoration day exercises at the court house at 1 o'clock on Tuesday, May 30. The program committee is at work, and has already secured the services of Mr. J. H. James, who will make an address. The ladies of the flower committee are planning to have a bountiful supply of flowers, flags will be provided, and the graves of all old soldiers, as well as those who engaged in the Spanish American war, will be decorated. Mr. John Coombs is chairman of the committee of arrangements, and will welcome the hearty co-operation of all who are interested.

The year's work in Greenville high school closes next Thursday, with appropriate exercises. This has been a notable year, both in attendance and achievement.

Mr. C. J. Rice, who is in the civil engineering department of the I. C. R. R., and has been at work in the south all winter, was here the first of the week, en route to Louisville, and may be engaged in this section for the summer. He reports that the company is doing much work in reducing grades and curves, as well as a great amount of preliminary work on proposed new construction.

Thirty-six new postal banks will be opened throughout the country on June 1, and Hopkinsville gets the only one in this state at this time. It is predicted that another order will soon be issued, and that Louisville and perhaps one other city will be selected. It is taxing the government to provide equipment for these banks, so great is the demand from all over the country.

Mr. Marvin Wells is being congratulated by his many friends on his creditable appearance before the state board of pharmacy recently, when he took the examination for registration. He received his report from the secretary this week, and has been registered. Under the system of exchange of certificates, this entitles him to practice now in twenty states. Mr. Wells intends staying with Messrs. Taylor & Poole for some months yet, at least.

A Road Like This Through Muhlenberg Hills Would Look Mighty Good.

GOOD ROADS. OUR NEEDS AND OUR POSSIBILITIES.

There is a widely developing interest in highway improvement in Muhlenberg county, and many leading farmers are agitating the matter. From all sections comes talk of our great needs in this line, and the towns are not behind the rural inhabitants as to permanent roads all over the county. This is a vast undertaking, and will require much time and money to accomplish, but the desire is becoming general, and that is all that is required, as when people realize the varied benefits to be derived, it will not be a hard matter to secure the necessary funds and materials. Muhlenberg could well spend a million dollars during the next five years, on its roads, and the investment would prove the most profitable of any that could possibly be made. Land values would be equalized and generally enhanced in every quarter of the county. Farms, no matter where located, would then bring what the land is worth. At the present time it is a matter of location, and not the productive qualities of the soil.

Mr. J. A. Jonson was here from Madisonville last Saturday, on a visit to his father, Judge Jep C. Jonson.

If you want that dead watch or clock put to work, let Mc have it and he will put it to running.

Even the most skeptical are now beginning to think there is a possibility this county will begin the construction of macadam roads. New forces are being marshaled every day, and farmers are getting enthusiastic in the matter.

It has been often said that even the youngest person in the county would never live to see permanent paved roads in Muhlenberg, but there is rapidly forming a new order of things, and wonderful things are hoped for in the next few years.

Eggs for sale—R. C. R. I. Reds, two pens, DeGraff and Tompkins strains, 75c and $1 per setting. S. J. Landis, Greenville, Ky.

GOOD ROADS. OUR NEEDS AND OUR POSSIBILITIES.

Lands lying near the towns are really selling at a higher price than real values, on account of the excessive demand being made by persons who dread the long hauls to market over our present poor roads. With permanent roads distance would be annihilated, and remote sections from the town would be more thickly populated in a short time. Farmers in Christian county, since the pikes have been built there, have had their eyes opened, and have found greater advantages than they hoped from good roads. It is nothing extraordinary to haul loads of five tons now, with four mules, and the trips are made quicker than with half that amount formerly. One farmer who lives 11 miles from Hopkinsville and 14 miles from Clarksville reports that he hauls 10,000 pounds to either place in a day easily. Last fall he delivered 125 tons of hay to Clarksville at a considerable saving of what freight would have cost. Hopkinsville merchants are elated over the roads, also, and the increased trade coming to them from far corners of the county, as well as from surrounding counties, is building up every county in that city. Surrounding counties are all getting awake on this matter, and if Muhlenberg is to hold its own we must build better roads.

Mr. Otto A. Rothert, who has been here for some weeks, returned to his home in Louisville Monday afternoon. While here he gathered much valuable matter for his history of Muhlenberg county, and intends to resume his work in the fall, when he will be here for some time. His collection of Indian relics was also enhanced by several very fine specimens of various kinds.

Our readers will enjoy the poem from the pen of Mr. Harry M. Dean, to be found in this issue. Mr. Dean has heretofore contributed pleasingly to our columns, and promised us a spring poem, but afterward found that our request had come too late, as he has been a contributor to several magazines, and the muse refused to work for him on anything but a winter plan at this time. He finally effected a compromise, and you will enjoy it.

Prominent Citizen Wants Good Roads.

Interest in improved roads is manifested from all sections daily. One of the most gratifying features comes from Mr. W. P. Hahn, a prominent farmer and business man at McNary, who says that if there is an effort made to macadamize roads in the county, he will donate a wagon and team, and supply a driver for thirty days each year, for the next three years to haul stone to be placed on the roads. This is a very public-spirited declaration, and we believe there are hundreds of farmers and teamsters in the county who would do as much in proportion, so that we might have permanent good roads. It would be time and money well invested, as half the time would be saved, and there could be a doubling of tonnage. If a large number of our citizens would make the declaration that has been made by Mr. Hahn, it would place the county officials in position to take up the matter of providing the stone and helping in placing it on the roads. If this work could once be started on any section of road, the benefits would be so great that people all over the county would be demanding pikes, and would make arrangements for substantial help. The railroad company would help in the matter of freights, it is thought, business men in the towns would contribute, the many coal companies would undoubtedly do their part, and the county officials would strain every point to the limit, we are confident. For the past several years we have been expending something like $15,000 per year on our roads, and we might continue along this line for a century, and still would have nothing permanent in the way of highways. The money spent in piking would go several miles each year, and would provide good roads all the year round. Mr. Hahn has the right idea about what we need in roads, and like a progressive citizen that he is, will do all he can to get them.

Barbee-Pannell Wedding.

Miss Clint Harrison Barbee and Mr. Paul Pannell were married at Springfield, Tenn., last Sunday morning at 7:30 o'clock. They left here on the late afternoon train Saturday, and were accompanied by Mr. Duncan Hamilton, who was the only person taken into their confidence, though several persons suspected that they were witnessing an elopement. The happy couple returned here Sunday afternoon, and are at home at Mr. T. P. Pannell's. The bride is the daughter of Rev. and Mrs. O. A. Barbee, and is a bright, sweet girl who has a wide circle of friends and admirers. The groom is the county's only rural route mail carrier, and is an industrious, obliging young man. May they live long, useful and happy lives.

Pastor Also a Piper.

The Eddyville Herald has the following story about one of its citizens who is well known in this county, where he has many friends and admirers:

Rev. W. F. Cashman, the beloved pastor of the Methodist church, hid himself to the woods Saturday where he engaged himself in the manufacture of paw-paw and white walnut whistles. The largest one is on exhibition at Withers drug store, is of white walnut, thirty-seven inches long, about an inch in diameter and as beautiful in tone and almost as loud as the whistle of the Steamer Nashville.

Secret Marriage Announced.

Greenville society was pleasantly surprised last Saturday when Mr. Oscar W. Irvin and his wife arrived here. Only the day before did his folks here learn that he was married. His wife was Miss Anna I. Hays, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Hays, of Rochester, and they were married August 10, 1910, at the home of Senator and Mrs. N. W. Utley, at Eddyville. The wedding was kept a secret, neither family knowing that it had occurred. Mr. Irvin will complete his work in the university in a few weeks, and has made a high mark in all his studies. He is a bright young man, and has many friends and admirers here. His bride is a charming woman, loved by all who know her, and is popular here, where she has made occasional visits. She is a graduate of the Campbell-Hagerman school, at Lexington, and that is where the friendship was formed that terminated the happy union. Mr. Irvin returned to Lexington Monday, and his wife is at home in Rochester. They have not determined where they will make their home.

Hair As a Sign of Health.

When people are in good physical condition, the fact is always apparent in their personal appearance. The skin, the teeth, the nails and the hair will all bear witness to the fact that it is well with their owner.

The appearance of the hair is a wonderful index to the state of health. When a person is in a lowered condition, either as a result of a severe illness or shock, or when suffering from poor digestion and defective circulation, the hair will at once betray the fact. It will be lusterless and dry-looking, and will oppose an aggravating resistance to all efforts to make it look well.

The great temptation at such a juncture is to overtrear the local condition and neglect the general condition. The proper course to pursue is the exact reverse of this. It is true that something can be accomplished by the local measures. If poor circulation, for example, is at the root of the trouble, vigorous massage of the scalp will bring the needed blood to the surface, and the tiny roots at the base of each hair will get the nutriment for which they are starving. But efforts to improve the circulation of one particular spot are poor economy, unless joined to an attempt to better the general circulation, and this can best be accomplished by proper exercises, and above all, by proper breathing.

The man who said that deep breathing would cure baldness promised a little too much. Many people must bow their baldness to a destiny. At the same time, deep breathing will improve the circulation; if the circulation is improved, the scalp must come in for its share, and a healthy scalp means hair as good as the particular individual is entitled to.

In the matter of luxuriance, the inequalities in human fates seem to be marked. Some people, do what they will, always have a thin growth of hair, and others, in spite of ill health or negligence, have thick hair. It seems to be one of those questions where taking thought has little to do with it, one way or another. But the thinnest hair may be well kept; and softness and gloss, and a look of springing health, are largely within the control of all.

Hair that is not scrupulously clean will never look well, and many persons suffer from an unwarranted fear of the shampoo.

Very dry hair is very much improved in appearance by the tiniest application of some bland oil to the roots after the hair is dry. The hair-brush has been so misused that it has fallen into disrepute with many people, but it is a very useful instrument if kept perfectly clean, and used with care and gentleness.
